FEMALE ADMINISTRATORS NETWORK

Currently there are few, if any, formalised networking opportunities available for female sports administrators to come together and share information and experiences. The vicsport Female Administrators Network is an initiative that aims to deliver professional development and networking opportunities for females who work for vicsport member organisations.

Are your female staff involved?

Aimed to assist women working in sport to establish links with other administrators in the sector, each session will address an issue/topic of interest for female administrators in an interactive workshop environment with informal networking opportunities available at the conclusion of each session.

There is no cost associated with joining the network, and most sessions are free for network members to attend.

For more information on how to become involved in this fantastic network contact Fiona Kuilboer on 03 9926 1373 or email fionak@vicsport.asn.au

Artificial Grass Guide - SRV

To encourage a well-planned and strategic approach to the provision of community sport and recreation facilities Sport and Recreation Victoria (SRV) has provided a range of facility planning guides. These planning Guides provide useful information to inform the key stages of facility development, including planning, design, construction, management, and maintenance.

Over the years SRV has provided several planning guides, including:

- Netball Court Planning Guide
- Football and Netball Lighting Guide
- Skate Facility Guide
- Access for All Manual
- The Good Play Space Guide (with PRAV)

Over the past 18 months SRV has sought to provide a new range of planning guides to our industry. These are:

- A new AAA Manual (yet to be named) - to be released in 2011
- Football (Soccer) Lighting Guide - anticipated to be released late 2010
- Tennis Facility Planning Guide (in partnership with Tennis Victoria) – to be released late 2010
- Artificial Grass for Sport Guide - anticipated to be released late 2010.

This will be a substantial document which has chapters on the nature/history and application of artificial grass, planning matters, design issues, project delivery options, sport specific considerations, management and operational matters, maintenance requirements and replacement issues.

As usual, these new and exciting planning guides will be free of charge, with hard copies provided to Councils and also be available on our website: www.sport.vic.gov.au. Once they are published SRV will inform you of their availability.

In some cases, such as the new AAA Manual, SRV will seek to provide workshops to promote and explain these publications.

Through the development and release of these new and exciting planning guides, SRV seeks to foster the on-going development of high quality, accessible community sport and recreation facilities.

4th Annual International Sport Facility Management Program

“Melbourne proves to be the Sporting Capital of the World through the 4th Annual International Sport Facility Management Program”

MSAC Institute of Training is proud to announce the upcoming 4th International Sport Facility Management Program will be held from 8-11 November 2010. This year’s event will focus on the 'Melbourne Model' of sport precincts and community hubs.

The International Sport Facility Management Program provides an outstanding opportunity to observe and learn from leading experts about the planning and management of sporting precincts and hubs. Additionally, the program is placed in the middle of an exciting sporting event period for Melbourne with the Australian Masters Golf Tournament and Spring Racing Carnival.

Simon Weatherill, Chief Executive Officer of the State Sport Centres Trust says “The International Sport Facility Management Program provides an outstanding opportunity to observe, learn and discuss with leading experts; in relation to concept planning, construction, establishment and operation of sporting hubs”.

Designed to target CEO's, Government Officials, Facility Operators, Venue Managers, Event Managers, Project Managers, Architects and Builders, the program is delivered as a 4 day workshop. Participants from all over Australia and the world will discuss and develop practical tools relating to each phase of the planning, operation and management of major sporting facilities. Each workshop will consist of panel discussions, key-note speakers, case studies and facility site tours. These site tours will include Rod Laver Arena, Hisense Arena, AAMI Park, Melbourne Cricket Ground (MCG), Albert Park Sports and Community Facilities, and Melbourne Sports and Aquatic Centre (MSAC).

“We believe that this year using the 'Melbourne Model' program, guests have an excellent opportunity to learn through the experiences and expertise of a range of professionals in major events and major facility management” Simon Weatherill says.

The International Sport Facility Management Program includes a networking pre-event being held on Saturday 6 November at Emirates Stakes Day, Flemington Race Course. Other inclusions involve a cocktail function, conference dinner, transport to all tours and social activities and entry to the National Sports Museum at the MCG. Early bird registration fees are offered before 30 September 2010 at a discounted rate.

For further information regarding the 4th International Sport Facility Management Program, or to register please contact Nick Lambert at the MSAC Institute of Training on +613 9926 1328 or email nickl@ssct.com.au or visit www.msacinstitute.com.au

Women's Rugby World Cup

Follow our national women's rugby world cup team, the Wallaroos, as they attempt to win their first Women's Rugby World Cup. The event is currently taking place in England and with all of the pool matches completed the Wallaroos have progressed to the semi-finals.

Results so far include a win against Wales (26-12), a loss to New Zealand (5-32) and a massive win against South Africa (62-0!). Australia now meets England in the semi final hoping to knock off the hosts to meet either New Zealand or France in the final. If Australia can win the World Cup they will become the first team to hold both the Rugby 7's and Women's Rugby World Cup at the same time.

The Wallaroos have gone down in a tough battle to arch rivals and one of the tournament favourites England. The team put up a truly Australian effort to stay in touch despite England being the more fancied team. The final between New Zealand and England will be on September 5. 2010 Disability Sport & Recreation Festival: Able and Active – Wheelchair Sports Victoria

The inaugural Disability Sport and Recreation Festival – “Able and Active” will bring together a range of community organisations which focus on sport and recreation opportunities, equity and health issues for Victorian's with disability, in an exhibition-style, free public event. Hosted by Wheelchair Sports Victoria and proudly supported by the State Government Victoria, City of Melbourne and Federation Square, the Festival will be held on International Day of People with Disability on Friday 3rd December 2010. The festival is a unique, interactive event promoting healthy, physically active lifestyles through inclusive and accessible sport and recreation. Held at Federation Square in Melbourne, the Festival will be a great opportunity for the sector to unite around common goals of “participation and equity for health” and will provide a one-stop-shop for consumers of disability sport and recreation, their carers, family and friends. To date, 20 organisations have registered to exhibit at the Festival. For more information or to register your interest in participating, please visit the events tab at the Wheelchair Sports Victoria website at www.wsv.org.au or email info@wsv.org.au

Melbourne coming up 'Aces' in new Australian Baseball League

Professional baseball is coming home! After a nationwide 'Name Your Team' competition, the Australian Baseball League (ABL) today unveiled names and logos for its six inaugural teams, with the Melbourne team to be known as the Melbourne Aces. The Melbourne Aces will be joined by the Adelaide Bite, Brisbane Bandits, Canberra Cavalry, Perth Heat and Sydney Blue Sox as the founding clubs of the ABL when the inaugural 40-game season begins in November. The ABL is supported by Major League Baseball (MLB), the Australian Baseball Federation (ABF) and the Australian Sports Commission (ASC). Running from November through to February, the off-season of the Northern Hemisphere baseball season, the ABL will provide an opportunity for Australians competing overseas to demonstrate their talents at home while also attracting premiere prospects from the top pro leagues in the United States, Japan, Korea and elsewhere.

The Aces name pays homage to the Victoria Aces who competed in the former Claxton Shield competition. As a term long used for the top fighter pilots in their class, the name also reflects the status of Victorian baseball as the most successful state with 22 Claxton Shield championships to its name.

Victoria has spawned the careers of 64 players who have gone on to play professionally with Major League Baseball affiliated clubs. Leading the Aces into the inaugural 2010-2011 season will be General Manager Stephen Nash. "The arrival of professional baseball in Melbourne, a city famed for its fanatical sport fans, heralds an exciting new chapter in Australian sporting culture," Nash said.

"The Aces look forward to welcoming a legion of passionate supporters this season and beyond. We are confident that once fans experience the electrifying atmosphere of Aces baseball, the club will become a sporting institution in Melbourne."

The six teams announced today have a deep pool of Australian talent to pick from with more than 75 Australians playing professionally for MLB affiliated teams, in the top Japanese, Korean and European leagues as well as the North American independent leagues. All told more than 300 Australians have played professionally including 28 for Major League Baseball.

Australia's rich baseball heritage dates back to the first game played between Richmond and Collingwood in 1857. In 2004 Australia brought home Olympic Silver, beating baseball juggernaut Japan.

The establishment of the ABL is the latest success in the long-term partnership between MLB and the ABF. The Major League Baseball Australian Academy Program began in 2001 to provide world-class coaching, training and development opportunities for elite young players and has led to a 40% increase in the number of Australians playing professional and college baseball.

For your chance to "Be Part of it, From the Start of it," and to secure your Melbourne Aces foundation membership or for more information please log onto www.melbourneaces.com.au.

ABOUT THE AUSTRALIAN BASEBALL LEAGUE:

The Australian Baseball League (ABL) is Australia's premiere professional baseball competition, and will commence its inaugural season in November 2010. A landmark partnership between the Australian Baseball Federation, Major League Baseball and the Australian Sports Commission, the ABL will feature a 40-game season and serve to elevate baseball's profile in the Australian sports landscape and fuel participation in the game. The ABL seeks to become the most fan-friendly and accessible sports code in Australia and to showcase, on home soil, enormously talented Australian baseballers, who for decades have excelled on the international stage. For memberships, tickets and information, please visit www.theABL.com.au.
